FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE -- May 24, 2019

CJSF Radio Kids Camp Returns This August!

This August, CJSF 90.1 FM's Radio Kids Camp will once again introduce young people to the wonderful world of radio! Exploring topics ranging from interactive media to sustainable communities, CJSF's Radio Kids Camp has also engaged its participants in the world at large throughout the years. The Radio Kids Camp is a fun and educational experience, and is a much-loved summer tradition at CJSF since it launched in 2008.

CJSF 90.1 FM is the community radio station on the SFU Burnaby campus that aims to make space for all voices on the airwaves, including young people in our community.

At the Radio Kids Camp, participants aged 8 to 12 will have the opportunity to produce their own show and learn about recording, sound editing, sound effects and DJing – all while enjoying familiar summer camp activities like workshops, games and field trips to local cultural venues and media outlets. At the end of the week, Radio Kids Camp participants will create their own live radio program on CJSF, playing music that they choose and broadcasting the stories that they have created during the week.

Throughout the week, campers will learn radio journalism skills that will aid them in thinking critically about the world and creatively expressing their passions and ideas.
